National Bonds Corporation, the UAE based Shari'a-compliant savings and investment company owned by the Investment Corporation of Dubai, has launched its Golden Pension Scheme in the UAE in a move to ramp up its suite of financial planning solutions for nationals and residents.

The unique initiative aims to help corporates registered with National Bonds support their employees' financial goals. The scheme, which is targeted towards the UAE's expat population, will help employees of registered corporates get a head start in retirement planning and strengthen their financial resilience as well as support organisations with their employee retention efforts by helping them plan ahead for the end-of-service financials.

Group head of legal at National Bonds, Alfred Bham (pictured), led the legal team in the matter.
